BARONESS SALLY
MORGAN

Baroness Sally Morgan of Huyton is a highly experienced leader at the intersection of government, education, health and public service. She is currently Master of Fitzwilliam College, Cambridge, and Chair of Royal Brompton & Harefield Hospitals, bringing together her long-standing commitment to education and to world-class healthcare

From 1997 to 2001, Baroness Morgan served as Political Secretary to the Prime Minister, before becoming Director of Government Relations at 10 Downing Street from 2001 to 2005. She was subsequently appointed Minister for Women and Equalities, shaping policy and debate on inclusion and opportunity at a national level. In the Lords, she has chaired the Select Committee on Digital Skills and served on the Science and Technology Committee, reflecting a strong interest in how technology, science and skills policy can support the UK's future competitiveness.

Sally has held a range of major public and non-profit roles, including Chair of Ofsted, where she oversaw the inspectorate responsible for standards across schools and children's services, and Adviser to the Absolute Return for Kids (Ark) Board, supporting innovative approaches in education. She was a Board Member of the Olympic Delivery Authority from 2006 to 2012, contributing to the successful delivery of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games. Her private sector governance experience includes Independent Non-Executive Director roles at Countryside Partnerships plc, Currys plc and Carphone Warehouse Group plc, where she brought a public-service mindset to commercial boardrooms and helped boards navigate complexity, regulation and stakeholder expectations.

Baroness Morgan brings deep cross-sector expertise in:

- Government, politics & policy – senior roles at 10 Downing Street and in the House of Lords, including Minister for Women and Equalities.
- Education, inspection & academic leadership – Chair of Ofsted and Master of Fitzwilliam College, with long-standing focus on opportunity and standards.
- Health, science & public service delivery – Chair of Royal Brompton & Harefield Hospitals and member of Lords committees on digital skills and science.

- Inclusion, diversity & social impact – leadership on women and equalities, education and the wider social role of public institutions and business.

A member of the House of Lords since 2001, she has combined front-line political experience with significant governance and board responsibilities across multiple sectors.
